

Freshman Theology ~ Room 105 ~ Mrs. Serra

What is expected of YOU in Theology Class:

- Attendance & Attention
- Respect for the teacher and your Classmates
- An open mind and heart during class
- Assignments done on time and neatly (no frayed edges)
- Check folder for any new or missed assignments

Necessary for each Class!

- Catholic Essentials Handbook
- Folder, Writing implement and highlighter
- Personal Bibles to be used in class. There are a few for use in class but not enough for everyone. (You will be told when to bring this in for class)

Class begins with Prayer

- If you enter class after prayer has begun stay where you are until we finish praying
- Postures of Prayer
 - Standing
 - Kneeling

Grading:

Tests and Projects You will be given at least 1 weeks notice before all tests and 4 weeks or more notice before all projects. I also post any and all review sheets and project outlines on the www.shhslions.com website.

Quizzes however may or may not be announced. I do usually give a few hints for those who pay attention.

Homework must be done on time as part of your class participation grade. Incomplete or missing homework assignments will lower your participation grade significantly.

Grade calculation is as follows:

Test average 50% + Quiz average 30% + Projects (when assigned) usually count as a test grade + Class participation 20%

*For those who are of a different faith background I have a few Bibles, which you may use during the year but you will not be able to highlight or write notes in them.

I give the student named below permission to watch films which may have an R rating in class this year. (The Passion of the Christ, is rated R and we view it in Theology)

Your first homework assignment is for you and your parent/guardian to sign this sheet and return it to me by September 9, 2009.
